

Kentucky Virtual University

1. Are more Kentuckians ready for postsecondary education?

- Help adults learn basic skills and get the services they need in one place.
- Work with the Kentucky Virtual High School (KVHS) and postsecondary institutions to provide dual credit opportunities and college courses to high school students.

2. Are more students enrolling?

- Expand access to postsecondary courses and programs for place- and time-bound students.
- Encourage providers to offer via the KYVU the programs and courses most requested by Kentucky citizens.
- Increase collaboration in developing and delivering on-line programs by Kentucky institutions.
- Generate statewide awareness of on-line learning opportunities.
- Work with public libraries in underserved counties to increase the use of KYVL resources and services.

3. Are more students advancing through the system?

- Offer on-line baccalaureate completer degree programs.
- Offer courses most likely to reduce time to degree or certificate completion.
- Work with the Kentucky Community and Technical College System (KCTCS) to provide developmental courses and call center personnel to advise and counsel on-line students.
- Improve information skills of P-12, postsecondary, and adult learners.
- Expand KYVL online resources and research services to online learners.
- Provide online tutoring services for KYVU learners.

4. Are we preparing Kentuckians for life and work?

- Provide free access to computers by innovative partnerships with Kentucky Guard Armories, Kentucky Area Technology Centers, and the Kentucky Housing Corporation.
- Expand offerings in on-line computer literacy programs.
- Work with the Education Professional Standards Board (EPSB) and other stakeholders to address Kentucky's shortage of qualified educators by developing on-line programs and certification exams.
- Work with the Kentucky Department of Education (KDE) to expand the availability of on-line instructional tools via the KYVL.
- Survey KYVU faculty and students to assess satisfaction.

5. Are Kentucky's communities and economy benefiting?

- Use KYVL resources and services as a tool to develop an informed Kentucky citizenry.
- Work with economic development agencies and employers to identify, produce, and provide relevant and useful curricula to business and industry.
- Provide instruction on-line that helps businesses to remain in and relocate to Kentucky.
- Provide learning opportunities that Kentuckians can use to stay current in their job skills and improve their standard of living.
